Embick Named To U.S.-Canadian Defense Board

Eleven Named To Serve for Two Countries

Study of Joint Problems Will Be Launched at Meeting Monday.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—President Roosevelt and Premier MacKenzie, King of Canada, announced tonight the 11 members of the permanent joint board of defense for the United States and Canada.

A statement released at the White House said that the first meeting would be held in Ottawa, the Dominion capital, next Monday.

The six Americans named were: Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York, president of the United States Conference of Mayors.

Lieutenant General Stanley D. Embick, commanding the fourth corps area with headquarters at Atlanta.

Captain Harry W. Hill, of the United States navy, war plans division, office of the chief of naval operations.

Commander Forrest P. Sherman, of the United States navy, and Lieutenant Colonel Joseph T. Mc-Nerney, of the Army Air Corps, who will alternate, one sitting during discussion of naval problems and the other sitting for army air problems.

John D. Hickerson, assistant chief of the European affairs division of the State Department, who will be secretary of the American section of the board.

Canadian Members.
The Canadian members are: O. M. Biggar, K. C.; Brigadier K. Stuart, D. S. O., M. C., deputy chief of the Canadian army general staff; Captain L. W. Murray, R. C. N., deputy chief of the naval staff; Air Commander A. A. L. Cuffe, a member of the air staff; Royal Canadian Air Force, and Hugh L. Kennelside, counselor of the department of external affairs, who will be secretary of the Canadian section of the joint board.

The board will study joint Canadian-American defense problems. During the day President Roosevelt discussed with high officials Great Britain's proposal to lease naval and air bases in the western hemisphere to this country.

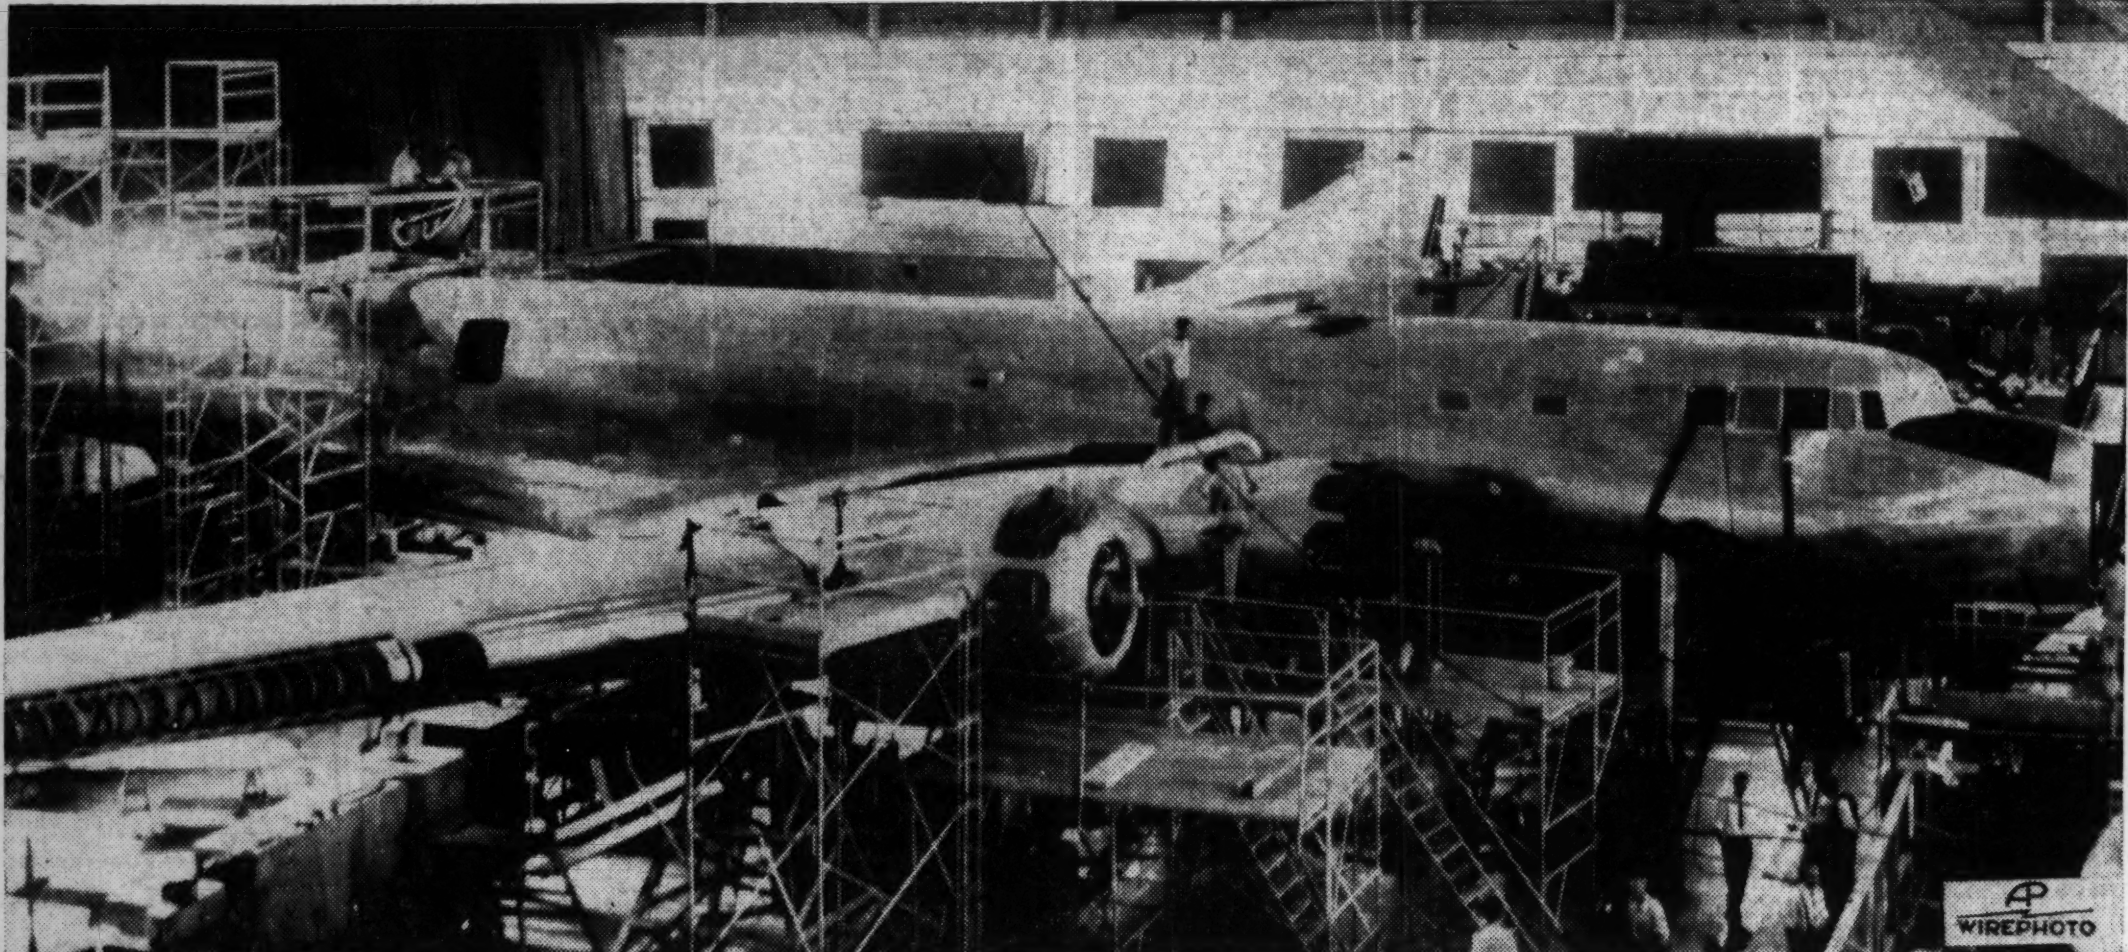

During the day Mr. Roosevelt called in Secretaries Knox and Stimson, Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state, and Attorney General Jackson for a conference on Britain's offer to lease to the United States western hemisphere territory desired for naval and air bases.

Prior to the conference, it had been understood that plans for accepting the proposal were about complete. In fact, Early told newsmen that Mr. Roosevelt bomber, so big the cameraman could not film it all in this picture taken yesterday, has a wing spread of over 210 feet and will weigh 140,000 pounds fully loaded. Four motors, totaling 8,000 horsepower, give the plane a range of over 7,000 miles which would enable it to fly nonstop to Europe, back to New York and then to Los Angeles. Test flights for the monster (note how it dwarfs the workmen) will be held sometime this fall.

FOUR-MOTORED MONSTER—Its mighty wings and body crowding the Douglas Aircraft Company, at Santa Monica, Cal., the B-19, largest and most powerful plane ever built, nears completion. The United States army

Nazis Infesting Georgians Help South America, Map Plans for Editors Told F. D. R.'s Drive

Chess Abernathy Declares U. S. Facing Loss of Her Markets.

By HERMAN HANCOCK, Staff Writer.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 22.—Nazi influences infest every government in South America, and unless the United States launches an intelligent and intensive "counter offensive," her South American markets will be lost entirely in the event of a British defeat, Chess Abernathy, editor of the Cobb County Times, told the opening sessions of the Georgia Press Association today in a stirring appeal for action.

Abernathy's address was the highlight of the first day's session, and prompted Nelson Shipp, Sunday editor of the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer, to offer the convention a resolution calling for immediate governmental action to offset German activities and to strengthen the United States.

The Shipp measure went to the resolutions committee for a recommendation but doubtless will be passed in closing sessions of the convention Saturday.

Urges Propaganda.
A five-point program, emphasized as necessary to protect American markets, was outlined as follows by Abernathy, who has spent six months in Latin America visiting nine of the 21 countries: 1. Launch a propaganda campaign, sending a press attaché to every diplomatic post; improve radio programs so that they are more easily heard and are more appealing.

2. Put teeth into the "good neighbor policy," seeking military alliances outright. 3. Lend every possible aid—including outright subsidies—to U. S. businessmen competing with German representatives, with only one stipulation—purge of their establishments of German work-ers.

4. Stabilization of fluctuating currency, and begin a series of barter deals. 5. Pay the expenses of prominent Latin American leaders to the United States, thereby fighting Hitler with his own weapons. He added another—the re-elec-

Rivers, Mrs. Price Confer With Dixie Heads in New York.

By RALPH MCGILL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Governor Rivers and Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, national committeewoman and committeewoman of Georgia, represented the state here today at a conference of southeastern party heads called by newly appointed National Democratic Chairman Ed Flynn, of Brooklyn.

Plans were initiated to organize the southern states for the Democratic party. Chairman Flynn, who replaces Jim Farley, who has resigned to accept a position with Coca-Cola as chairman of the export department, said no definite plans would be made until after the state primaries.

This means no chairman for the national campaign will be named in Georgia, or other southern and southeastern states, until after the primaries have been held and state officials nominated.

There was a spirit of optimism for the party in the meeting today, but no underestimation of the task ahead. The formidable amount of money behind the Republican nominee, Wendell Willkie, and the fact that candidate was off to an unprecedented start have not been overlooked.

Naturally, the fact the party has a new national chairman and that he has just taken over the job has delayed somewhat at least the organization. It now is well under way. This was quite a day in New York. Willkie had arrived late last night and was at a hotel near by, the Biltmore, where are the Democratic headquarters. He and his committee were busy with plans to crack the solid south. They plan to enlist every possible aid, including as many Democrats as can possibly be drawn away from the party ranks. They count on many Democrats deserting as they did in 1928 when many voted for Herbert Hoover. They believe they can play the third-term issue hard and make those Democrats forget the evil results which followed the voting for Hoover.

The Republicans were vastly disappointed over the reception of Willkie's radio speech of acceptance at Elwood. He spoke badly

U. S. Plane, World's Speediest, Carries Cannon at 500 M.P.H.

Army Also Building Bomber, Largest Ever Made, Which Can Fly to Europe, Back to New York and On to Los Angeles Without Stopping.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The United States' newest warplane, the Lockheed Interceptor, can fly more than 500 miles per hour, Major General Henry H. Arnold said today in releasing for the first time its performance figures.

Meanwhile, Arnold also revealed that the biggest airplane ever built—a bomber capable of flying nonstop from New York to Europe, thence back and to Los Angeles—is nearing completion.

"The world's fastest," beamed the chief of the United States Army Air Corps.

It's speed, Arnold said, is 460 miles an hour at two-thirds throttle, but it is stepped up past 500 miles per hour when "wide open."

Its range is 1,100 miles; rate of climb 4,000 feet a minute; armament, one rapid fire cannon, shooting a one-pound shell, and four machineguns.

William S. Knudsen, chairman of the National Defense Advisory Committee, watched the new plane put through its paces today.

Major K. B. Wolfe, chief production engineer for the Army Air Corps, said the army has ordered a large quantity of these new type planes—"I can't tell you the exact number, but it is the largest order for combat planes under the national defense program. We hope to get delivery of 100 a month."

The huge nonstop bomber has been under construction secretly in the Douglas factory at nearby Santa Monica for four years.

Lieutenant Colonel C. E. Bradshaw, Army Air Corps officer in charge of its construction, said the plane would be powered with four 2,000-horsepower engines, largest ever built. It will be in the air this fall.

With a wing spread of 212 feet and 112 feet long, its tail assembly alone is larger than the ordinary commercial plane.

The craft will have a gasoline capacity of 11,000 gallons. It will carry bigger cannon than any airplane in the world, but Bradshaw said the exact armament details were secret. The plane will require a crew of 10.

'Battleship of the Air' Is Developed by Britain

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Britain has developed a new bomber-fighter plane—a "battleship of the air"—and it is reported that orders for some have been placed in Canada.

The specifications of performance, design, armament and armor are secret but the plane is described as "gigantic" with extra long range and almost impregnable to ordinary defense fire.

Atlanta Passes Three Cities To Rank 29th

Importance as Commercial, Industrial Center Even More Impressive.

Preliminary 1940 census figures indicate that Atlanta has advanced from 32d in 1930 to 29th place among the cities of the nation by passing Jersey City, Toledo and St. Paul.

Jersey City dropped from 316,715 in 1930 to 301,012 in 1940, and Toledo from 290,718 to 281,096. St. Paul grew from 271,606 to 288,023. At the same time Atlanta jumped from 270,366, the 1930 count, to 302,538; an increase of 11.9 per cent as compared with an average increase of all cities released to date of 5.7 per cent.

Impressive Ranking.

Atlanta's rank as a city of commercial and industrial importance is even more impressive, according to Ivan Allen, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce industrial bureau. Here is how the city ranks:

Second among other cities in the nation in office space per capita.

First in railway express shipments per capita.

Thirteenth in bank clearings.

Eighteenth in postal receipts.

Third largest telephone center.

Fourth in federal government activities and employees.

Fourth in fire insurance premiums cleared.

Third in number of branches of national concerns.

First as world's greatest Negro educational center.

Largest Mule Market.

First in the number of different directions of air routes.

First as the world's largest mule market.

In the south, Atlanta ranks first as a financial, telephone, transportation, medical and mail center, and is first in industrial output. Among cities of its size, it has the lowest bonded debt.

Atlanta has the additional distinction of being higher above sea level than any other comparative city in the nation with the exception of Denver.

British, Italian Warships Off Greece in Crisis

24-Hour Ultimatum Is Reported Handed to Greek Government.

ATHENS (Friday), Aug. 23.—(UP)—King George II met with his ministers and defense leaders in a hurriedly summoned conference at 2:15 o'clock this morning as unconfirmed rumors spread that both Italian and British warships were cruising off the Greek island of Crete.

The emergency conference at the foreign office gave rise to rumors of impending grave developments in the mounting tension between Greece and Italy.

In London reports were published from Belgrade that Italy had served a 24-hour ultimatum on Greece, demanding under threat of war that she renounce the antiaggression guarantee which she holds from Great Britain. A British spokesman in Athens reaffirmed the guarantee Thursday.

There was speculation in London that the British fleet might land forces to occupy Crete and Corfu if the Greeks appealed to Britain for protection, but it was stated authoritatively that so far as is known no such appeal has been received.

Before the emergency hour-long conference the ministry of interior was understood to have been informed by the chief of police of a small island 20 miles northwest of Crete of a battle between a presumably Italian plane and British warships Thursday.

Only yesterday a British spokesman had announced that the British navy and air force will come to the aid of Greece immediately if Italian forces, now concentrating along the Greek-Albanian border, launch an invasion and the Greeks resist.

Army Plans To Train 18,500 Men at McClellan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP) Senator Hill, Democrat, Alabama, said today that the War Department had notified him it intended to put approximately 18,500 men into training soon at Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala.

Hill said the department would announce plans soon for construction of housing and other facilities.

Crowds Watch Aircraft Guns Rout Invaders

Coastal Towns Are Bombarded From France; Enemy Is Routed.

By The Associated Press.
London, a city of nearly 9,000,000 inhabitants, heart of an empire, was raided by a large number of German planes in the early morning darkness today—London's first night raid of the war.

For three-quarters of an hour the population—those which chose watching the fireworks to huddling in air raid shelters—heard the intermittent rumble of exploding and screaming bombs, the defensive thundering of anti-aircraft guns and watched the weird play of lights and exploding shells against the sky.

The all-clear was sounded at 4 a. m. (10 p. m. Atlanta time).

Although there was no precise count of casualties so soon after the Germans swept in, it was learned that one or two of those wounded had died.

Most of the bombs appeared to have fallen on the western outskirts of the city, but there were explosions which seemed to come from London's populous and fashionable West End.

Londoners did not classify the raid as the "real thing." They called it a hit-and-run affair.

Long-Range Shelling

The swing back to air attack came after the Battle of Britain took a new turn—long-range shelling of England's southeast coast defenses in two bombardments by Nazi batteries planted along 30 miles of French coast from Calais to Boulogne.

Dover bore the brunt of the shelling, but explosives hurled across the Channel splattered other sections of the coast also.

The British struck back with dive bombers aimed at silencing the guns and smashing their carefully prepared placements.

Official quarters said the British counter-blow was with bombers only, and that there had been no artillery duel across the water.

Homes Smashed

Homes were smashed at Dover and the big shells took an uncounted toll of lives. Residents were seen as late as midnight hurrying from the shelled zone to overnight safety elsewhere.

The heavy German guns shelled the coast twice. They resumed a bombardment of the British coast after having been silenced for half an hour by counter-attacking British bombers. From the Nazi-held French coast they sent five shells over the English channel in as many minutes.

Then, the RAF bombers roared over to deliver a second and even fiercer attack, while Nazi anti-aircraft guns barked almost incessantly.

British coastal areas in the region of Kent—county in which the channel port of Dover is situated—were heavily shelled.

Waste of Time.

Authoritative persons in London declared, however, that the Nazi attack with land guns was "a waste of time," contending that it had no worth-while military object.

More damage could be done by bombs, they said, adding that a shell fired from a distance equivalent to the cross-channel range of 20-odd miles had only four per cent of a bomb's bursting power.

While this long-range shelling grew in intensity, German warplanes were reported in great numbers over Britain—in the

GFL Refuses To Indorse Any Candidate

Their Stand on Benefit Programs Called Unsatisfactory.

By LUKE GREENE
Georgia labor is not satisfied with the way either of the four candidates for Governor proposes to finance the public benefit programs of the state, and workers affiliated with the Georgia Federation of Labor are given no advice on how to vote for any gubernatorial candidate, according to a statement issued yesterday by the federation.

The information, sent to all unions in a circular letter said: "The candidates, one and all, expressed a great interest in the state's maintaining the proper functioning of these services of the state. No candidate, however, offered a plan that he would promote. Mr. Talmadge, however, said that he would receive adequate appropriations for correct and satisfactory functioning."

"Favorable" Answers
The candidates were asked about the labor department, continuing the seven-months school bill, continuing the health department program, social security, old-age pensions and other humanitarian functions. The circular sent out marked the answers from all candidates as "favorable."

There has been no detailed announcement of what transpired at the closed meeting, but members of the committee spent a whole day and part of the night quizzing the candidates on various issues. Dewey Johnson, president of the Georgia Federation, indicated the candidates were asked to commit themselves on some issues that have not been brought out in campaign speeches.

The result of the meeting, however, was that the federation indorsed no candidate for Governor or any other office. Johnson said yesterday the unions were not being urged to lean one way or the other.

The circular said that "none of the candidates gave definite assurance that present employees who are members of organized labor would be retained, and expressed varying degrees of approval of organization after their political supporters had been placed in office."

Four railway unions, commonly known as the "big four," followed a similar policy with respect to the Governor's race, but indorsed several candidates for other state offices. They are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees.

Their action did not carry the indorsement of the Georgia Federation of Labor.

The co-operative legislative committee representing four unions indorsed President Roosevelt, but when it came to the Governor's race, the instructions were as follows: "Neutral—use your best judgment—vote for your choice."

Candidates who received the indorsement of the railway committee were Attorney General Ellis Arnall, who is unopposed; incumbent Jud P. Wilhoit, of Warrenton, for Public Service commissioner; incumbent Downing Musgrove, for comptroller general; incumbent Warren Grice, for associate justice of the Georgia supreme court; former State Auditor Tom Wisdom, for state treasurer, and Royal K. Mann, for the Prison and Parole Commission.

In congressional races, Braswell Deen was recommended in the eighth district, and B. Frank Welchel in the ninth.

The communication announcing the choice of the railway unions was signed by Secretary-Treasurer J. A. Scott.

On the political speech-making front yesterday, Candidate Abit Nix created a ripple last night at Macon when he described Governor Eugene Talmadge and Editor W. T. Anderson, of the Macon Telegraph, as "American-born fifth columnists."

He delivered a 45-minute talk in which he bitterly attacked Talmadge and the Macon editor.

"When you see Gene Talmadge, Bill Anderson and the Macon Telegraph in the same political bed," he asserted, "you know you have been sold down the river."

The Athens attorney declared he was a full-fledged Democratic supporter of Roosevelt policies and added:

"I am not running for Governor on anyone's coat-tail, and no one is running for any office on my coat-tail," he said.

"The people in casting their ballot on September 11 must remember that a co-operative legislature is necessary for a Governor to pay the school teachers, build roads and give assurances that all branches of government will function efficiently and economically."

He said he would "get along" with a general assembly that desired to see Georgia "return to sanity, economy and efficiency."

SUPPORT IS PLEDGED TO JESSE HALL.

Headed by Mayor N. K. Carter, of Talbot, a delegation from Talbot county yesterday visited campaign headquarters of Jesse Hall, candidate for secretary of state.

"We are going to show the people of Georgia what we think of Jesse Hall by giving him a unanimous vote in the whole county," Carter said. Hall is a native of Talbot county.

Included in the delegation were J. A. Smith, H. C. Collier, J. W. Trussell and R. A. McKinnon.

Lung Disease Victim Found Dying by Road

Battle Hill Was Too Crowded To Provide Bed for Her.

(In the belief that the $4,000,000 bond issue for Grady hospital, Battle Hill, and the expansion and improvement of the school system must pass on September 4, The Constitution is presenting this series of articles dramatizing the needs of each. Today's article, third in the series, deals with Battle Hill sanitarium.)

By HAROLD MARTIN.

A woman died in a cell at Fulton Tower the other night a few minutes after she had been found by officers moaning and disheveled, beside a county road.

She was brought there because, as death drew nigh, there on the road alone she had cast her arms about her wildly, had talked in senseless phrases, and was acting thus when the officers came along.

To them, not knowing medicine, she was insane. And the rule is that when demented persons are picked up, they must be taken first to jail, where they may be safely kept, and a doctor called to them there.

So a doctor was called from Grady. His examination didn't take long.

"This woman is not insane," he said. "She is dying. Dying of tuberculosis."

Didn't Give Up.

The folk at the jail did not give up hope. They called Battle Hill and asked that she be taken there. But there was no room at Battle Hill. She could not be brought there for there was no place to put her.

When they turned back from the phone, she was dead.

It is not important that Battle Hill was unable to take her then, for it was too late. But when her name was learned and her background traced, it was found that in the past, when the disease was new upon her, she had sought to get in Battle Hill, where she might have been cured.

And the story had always been the same. There was no bed for her.

There is no place there for hundreds of others, who, like this woman, are moving slowly to the death that finally overtook her.

Should Be 700.

There are only 256 beds at Battle Hill. There should be 700. There are 256 people there, fighting their way slowly back to health, or waiting quietly to die, isolated there so they will not infect others. There are twice that many who should be there who can't get in.

Those who are there are safe. Those who should be there, but can't get in, are doomed. They are sure to die, and before they die they will pass on their disease to others, spreading it in an unending chain which will overtax hospitals for generations to come.

Battle Hill needs many things. It is a sprawl of red-roofed white wooden buildings that seem to hold together only by their paint. They are fire-traps which would go up in a blaze in a flash.

It is hideously crowded. Thirty girls and women in the "walking patient" ward must bathe and dress in a tiny cubby-hole little larger than the bathroom in a modern home. Their clothes are stuffed into tiny lockers in a dark, narrow corridor where pater pours through the broken roof when it rains.

Beds stand so close together one patient can almost touch another, and all a patient's possessions except her clothes must be stuffed into the one narrow drawer of a small table beside her bed.

Battle Hill as it now stands needs to be torn plank from plank, stone from stone.

It needs to be rebuilt in two modern, fire-proof buildings with three times the bed space it now has.

It needs an operating room, to take the place of the little 10-by-12 cubby hole which now serves, so that desperately sick patients need not be hauled across town to a hospital and back again when major surgery is required to collapse a lung.

It needs a dental room, with modern equipment, to replace the antique chair and foot-driven drill which now is tucked away in one corner of the drug room.

It needs more private rooms where the desperately ill may go for their last hours.

"There are two times in a man's life," says Dr. J. C. Burch, "when he should be away from all except those who can help him—when he is born and when he dies."

Yet many a patient has died at Battle Hill in the open ward because the private rooms were taken by others passing on.

Battle Hill, if the bond issue passes, will get a half million dollars of the four million bond fund. It will be a good beginning.

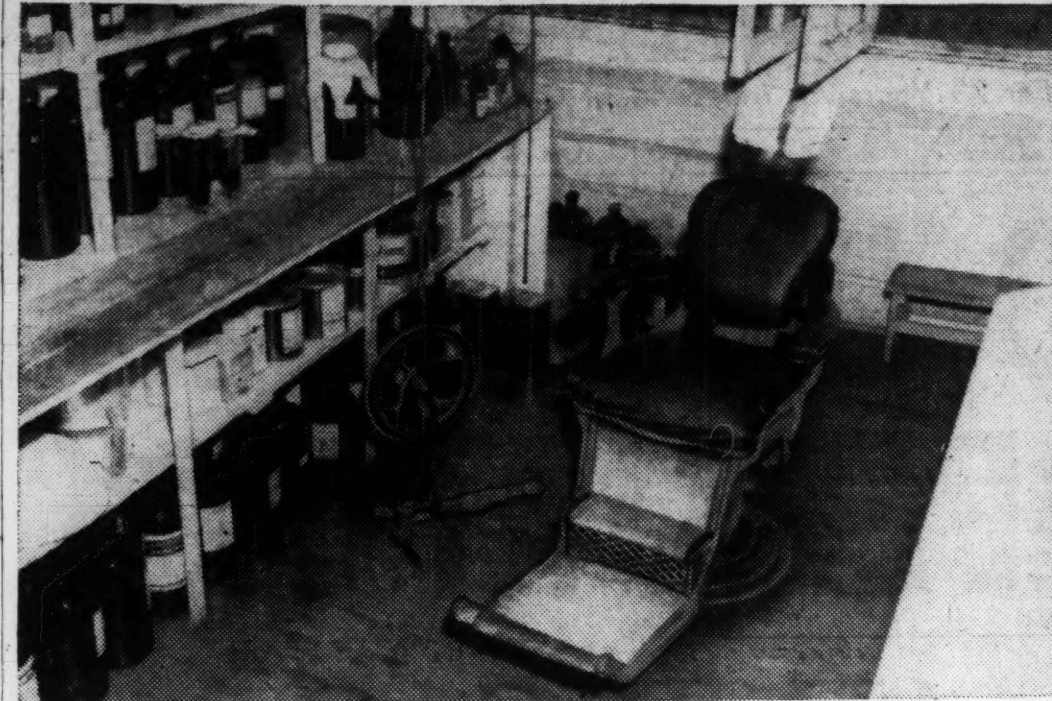

It will replace the old fire-traps with modern buildings. It will provide more room for the patients, decent places for those who are able to be up to dress and keep their things.

It will make an operating room possible, and some adequate equipment for the dental room.

It will hardly be enough to provide the full quota of beds that are needed, but it will help. It will be a start.

The people at Battle Hill are happy. They are getting well. The people who can't get in, who are dying because there is no room for them, deserve the same chance.

The bond issue is the only answer. It comes on September 4. There are 40,000 registered voters in Atlanta. In their hands lies the fate of the hundreds who now need Battle Hill.

MUSEUM PIECE—Here's Battle Hill Sanitarium's dental clinic, tucked away in one corner of the drug room. Its equipment should be in a museum, for it is doubted that a modern dentist has seen a chair like this since the turn of the century, and the old foot-pedaled drill is the type young dentists used to load into the back of a buggy when, just out of school, they plied their trade in the hinterlands.

"JAM SESSION"—In this small room 30 "walking patients" are jammed in to bathe, dress, shampoo and dry their hair, and iron their clothes. At left, they peer over each other's shoulders to comb their hair before the one small mirror. At right they wait in line for their turn at the two small lavatories. The only telephone available to them is also in this room, and on rainy days the roof leaks.

COULD BE HAPPIER—They keep smiling at Battle Hill, but they would be more comfortable if their beds were not jammed so close together, happier if they had some place other than one small drawer of a table to keep their possessions.

Mayor Orders Ban on Obscene Publications

Newsstand Dealers Here Face Prosecution, Says Hartsfield.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday joined in the war started by Mayor La Guardia of New York on obscene magazines and literature and called upon Atlanta magazine dealers to stop selling and distributing filthy publications.

LaGuardia this week banned 42 popular magazines of the romance, confession and detective type and declared he will treat all such as garbage if they are kept on sale in New York.

Hartsfield requested Atlanta newsstand dealers to voluntarily remove all obscene magazines and publications from their stands and to co-operate with the administration in preventing "filth and smut" from being distributed.

Board of Review.

If the dealers do not withdraw the risqué publications, Hartsfield said he would refer specific magazines about which complaints are made to the city's board of review for its members to study and advise the police department whether or not the matter contained in the magazines is obscene.

It is the duty of the police department to prosecute any one distributing obscene literature and pictures and if the board holds that the magazines are obscene, then the police would prosecute, he said.

Hartsfield and State Senator G. Everett Millican sponsored the state's obscene literature law in the legislature when Hartsfield was in the house of representatives. The law, which makes distribution of obscene matter a felony, came after a drive against distribution of filthy magazines, books and pictures by Solicitor General John A. Boykin more than five years ago.

No Specific Accusations.

The mayor refused to name any specific magazine and declared he was not attempting in any way to act as censor.

"I'm not setting myself up as censor of what the people shall read," he commented, "but I hope that the newsdealers here will voluntarily comply with this request."

"I do not wish to threaten them or anyone. However, the law is very strict and it is the duty of the police department to enforce it."

Myrna, William Go Out to Rhodes

Myrna Loy and William Powell continue their light comedy, "I Love You Again," for another week, opening today at the Rhodes theater.

The film presents a fast-moving laugh-packed series of situations dealing with the plight of a man who suddenly recovers from an eight-year attack of amnesia and discovers that during the time he has acquired a new personality, a charming wife who is about to divorce him, a spotless reputation as the leader of a community called Habersville, a bank account and the manager's berth in a large pottery firm. Formerly he was a criminal.

Stretch your horizon. Go Farther. See More. Enjoy the beauty nature has created for you with a good reconditioned used car advertised in The Constitution.

COMMUNISM RIDICULED—On the west coast the non-film colonists consider Georgia-born Melvyn Douglas the biggest "Red" in the alleged pink-tinted movie colony. To prove the only "ism" he has is "Americanism," Melvyn agreed to portray a Communist in ridiculous manner in the comedy hit of the month—"He Stayed for Breakfast." Hiding from police, he dons women's clothes for the second time in pictures.

REWARD—The Communist Red, a waiter who shot overly fed capitalists whom he was called upon to serve, hides in the closet of the monied man's girl friend, Loretta Young. Intrigued by a man who refuses to pay her court and who organizes a revolution among her household servants, Loretta falls in love with Melvyn, agrees to defend him from police. Hilarious events follow—involving heiress and Communist in this Rialto theater comedy.

TOO GOOD—Melvyn likes Loretta's home so much, he stays all night, and for breakfast. Only the party has found out about his escapade and he is joined for breakfast, not by the girl but by a party member. The party orders Melvyn to give himself up to police and to implicate Loretta in the shooting of her fiancé. Melvyn refuses, is forced to leave the country as Loretta holds off police. They meet again on the boat to America.

Isles Without Common Cold

That colds never occur on the Tristan da Cunha group of islands in the south Atlantic until a ship calls and that a man lives until 80 without showing a speck of organic tooth decay, is the information brought to Lydenburg, South Africa, by Dr. J. C. Dunne, geologist to the Royal Norwegian Scientific Expedition, which has arrived at Capetown after spending nearly two years in the islands. "Whenever a ship arrives," said Dr. Dunne, "an epidemic of colds develops. This having passed, not a single case of cold is known until the visit of the next ship." The expedition has gathered valuable data for publication regarding intermarriage, customs and the mental and moral development of the inhabitants.

DeKalb Police Search For Liquor Car Driver

DeKalb county police are searching for another Negro in conjunction with an automobile crash Wednesday night in which 130 gallons of non-tax paid whisky were seized.

Officers C. M. Cloud and C. H. Nisscher reported that while patrolling on the County Line road, near Tilly Mill road, they saw the car crash off the highway. Near the accident they arrested a Negro listed as Benjamin Heard, 25, of 74 Pine street, who was taken to Grady hospital for treatment. They say the driver of the car escaped in the wooded areas.

Mindling Gives Praise to Long Range Reports

Five-Day Forecasts Aid in Making Daily Predictions.

George Mindling, chief meteorologist of the Atlanta bureau, said yesterday that long-range forecasts, which are being made each Friday and Tuesday, give more specific information concerning the amount of rainfall that may be expected and indicate how near temperatures are likely to be normal. For the past 20 years a weekly forecast has been issued, but recent advancement in determining upper air conditions has facilitated further the accuracy of the long-range forecast.

C. E. von Herrmann, who retired as chief of the Atlanta office in 1932, but still maintains an active interest in methods of making forecasts, said that observations made by pilots in the upper strata have been instrumental in distributing valuable information concerning upper air conditions, which are necessary for the new type weather forecast service. The service is being used here as part of the daily report of weather conditions given on the radio and in the newspapers.

Hospital Trustees Lose $8,750 Suit
A consent order awarding James A. Branch, Atlanta attorney, and Kenneth C. Royall, attorney of Raleigh, N. C., fees totaling $8,750 for services in a test case against the trustees of the Jesse Parker Williams memorial hospital, was signed in Fulton superior court yesterday by Judge John D. Humphries.

The attorneys sued the hospital trustees in behalf of Miss Edith Congdon Taylor, relative of the late Mrs. Cora B. Williams, to test the validity of her $1,750,000 will setting up the hospital fund.

The trustees won the case, but under an agreement the estate paid the attorneys' fees with the consent of the court. Mrs. Idella Nisbet, of Jacksonville, Fla., recently won a $315,000 verdict against the estate, the largest award ever made in Fulton superior court.

Cash for Farmers Who'll Plant Peas

So Fulton farmers can make a little extra money and at the same time enrich their soil, the AAA has ready cash for farmers who will plant Austrian winter peas, S. D. Truitt, county agent who is secretary of the Fulton county AAA committee, announced yesterday.

"The 1940 agricultural conservation program makes $1.50 available to each farmer seeding at least 30 pounds of Austrian winter peas per acre," Truitt said. "An additional $1.50 per acre will be available under the 1941 program for turning under a good stand or by leaving a good stand on the land."

The farmers must put the equivalent of 200 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate on the land with the peas unless the crop is to follow a crop previously highly fertilized.

QUITE A CONQUEST—Cowboy Ken Maynard has things so much his own way in this he-man struggle that his horse takes it all in calm contentment. Ken gives the western lovers some thrills in the Cameo theater feature, "In Old Santa Fe," today and tomorrow.

Maynard Is Star Of Cameo Movie

Ken Maynard, popular star of fast-action western dramas, will be seen on the screen of the Cameo theater today and tomorrow in "In Old Santa Fe."

Maynard and his troupe of hard-riding buckaroos, surrounded by an all-star cast of talented scene actors, Evelyn Knapp, George "Gabby" Hayes, H. B. Warner, Kenneth Thompson, and the wonder horse, "Tarzan," ride into town, with adventures woven about the historic Santa Fe trail. The film has all the color of the wild west coupled with one of the most lightning-paced plots of the year, with wild rides, furious fights and music with Maynard singing the old songs of the range.

Caruso Piano Is Discovered At Wesleyan

Singer's Autograph Is Found Inscribed on Sounding Board.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MACON, Ga., Aug. 22.—A grand piano bearing the autograph of Enrico Caruso on its sounding board has come to light at the Wesleyan Conservatory of Music here.

Professor Joseph Maerz, for 27 years musical director of the conservatory, said the piano probably was bought in Atlanta from the company which had loaned it to Caruso during the 1912 grand opera season, as that is the date it bears. A group of sorority girls bought it for their clubhouse, just before the secret societies were disbanded at Wesleyan College, and the instrument has stood in the grand parlors of the school for 25 years.

The signature is in pencil and cannot be seen without lifting the piano top to its full height, which accounts for the fact that it has not been discovered before.

The piano and all other musical equipment of the school is being brought up-to-date as part of the $12,000 remodeling program now going on under the direction of J. Ralph Ewing, newly-appointed executive director of the conservatory.

Detailed plans call for repair to the main building and chapel, re-fitting of all parts of the main building now in use, installation of a new electric lighting system and beautification of the grounds.

Uniform Pension Plan Being Drawn

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 22.—Spence M. Grayson, chairman of the committee drafting a uniform pension law for the Georgia Municipal Association, has announced the plan will be ready for presentation to the organization at its October session in Atlanta.

Grayson, in illustrating the need for a uniform pension law, pointed out that Atlanta now has four pension systems.

Savannah's system, it is pointed out, is one of the most effective in Georgia and no doubt will have a strong influence in the drafting of a statewide plan.

The model law will incorporate from the Savannah plan the idea of a minimum number of years' service for eligibility, with a graduated scale of increased pay until the maximum has been reached. The model, like the local one, would be a basis of contributions by employees.

Accused Thief's Return From Florida Is Sought
Extradition papers for B. H. Whitehead, under indictment here for larceny after trust, were sent yesterday to Miami, where he is under arrest, attaches of the solicitor general's office said.

Whitehead is accused of taking $645 belonging to the Retail Clerks' Protective Association, Local No. 1063. The indictment lists more than 300 persons as owners of the money. Deputy Sheriff C. T. Maddox was sent to Florida to return Whitehead here for trial.

DeKalb Girl, 18, Disappears on Wedding Day

Former Maddox High Student Last Seen on Alston Drive.

DeKalb county police yesterday were notified of the disappearance of 18-year-old Tina Mae Hargrett, of 27 Elsworth drive, last seen near the East Lake streetcar terminus on August 15—the day, according to her mother, she had planned to marry an Egan Park mill worker.

The mother, Mrs. S. B. Hargrett, said her daughter had left home early that morning to apply for a position as nurse in the Morgan place home of Joseph H. Allen, a city council candidate, in response to a newspaper advertisement.

It was Mr. Allen's maid who last saw the former Maddox High school girl as she walked along Alston drive to the car line. Her engagement was said to have been broken the Sunday before her disappearance.

The girl has black hair and brown eyes, and is slender. She was wearing a blue dress with white socks and black shoes. She had 25 cents as carfare.

The disappearance, according to the mother, has previously been reported to Fulton county police, who have reported no clues.

Professional Men May Face New Tax

Doctors, lawyers and other professional men who have offices in Fulton county but reside outside the county may have to begin paying taxes to Fulton, it developed yesterday.

The county legal department rendered an opinion that office equipment, notes, loans and mortgages made by these professional men in this county are subject to taxation by Fulton.

Heretofore, it was said, the doctors, lawyers, dentists and similar professional persons have returned their property for taxation in the county in which they live. The legal department suggested a test case be carried to the supreme court by the county since the high court has never ruled on this point.

Gray Veterans To Hold Reunion

The 47th annual reunion of the Georgia division of the United Confederate Veterans will be held at Milledgeville September 16-18, L. Thomas Gillen, adjutant general and chief of staff, announced yesterday.

Invited to attend were all Confederate veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Children of the Confederacy, the Ladies' Memorial Association, Daughters of the American Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution, United Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, auxiliaries of each and other patriotic organizations.

Hospital Releases Mrs. Henderson

Mrs. A. J. Henderson, of 302 Harden street, was dismissed from Emory hospital yesterday, where she was treated for injuries suffered in an automobile accident Wednesday night.

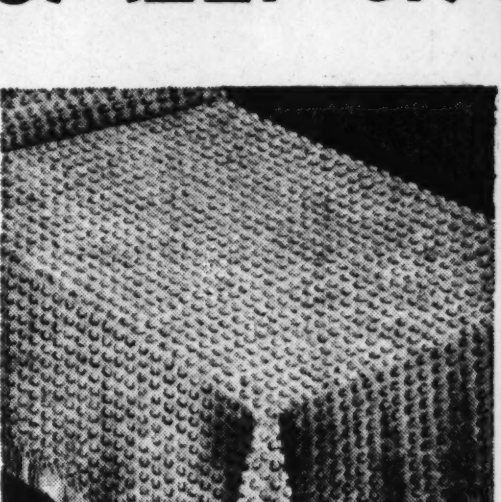

Meanwhile, DeKalb county police were holding L. F. Plank, of Griffin, on a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated. Plank, according to Captain Ed Foster, struck the automobile driven by Mr. Henderson on Memorial drive, near Mountain creek.

Mrs. Henderson was taken to the hospital by Captain Foster. She suffered painful cuts and bruises, but no broken bones.

Is Glad Child
No Longer Is A Prodigy.

Here it is midsummer—according to the thermometer if not the calendar—and the Bartow Herald, up at Cartersville, is talking about the autumn fair. How Editor Frier can think about fairs and prize pumpkins and all that—but maybe he keeps cooler than I do.

Anyway, the American Legion is backing and presenting it. So it ought to be good. They present a dog show. If they'll offer a prize for dachshund pups, aged 11 months and worse behaved than Peck's bad boy of out-of-print literature, I'll enter Ding and Dong. And put up a personal prize to the expert who can tell which is the bad boy who chews through wire fences and climbs pickets and leads his good brother astray. But I never can tell which one to frail hades out of without doing injustice to the other.

Along about 5 o'clock in the afternoon it is my delight, if I've caught up on the job, to take a shower, don an outfit of ancient clothes, and sit out in the back yard, where there's usually a breeze.

About that time or thereabouts I hear the drone of an airplane overhead. Plane bound for New York. My two-by-four lot is directly under the route and I'm thinking about suing for my air rights.

But it's nice to hear the hum of that motor without feeling impelled to duck into the basement or an improvised air shelter.

This is a pretty pleasant country to live in. So far.

No Longer "News"

What's become of the Dionne quintuplets? I assume they're doing well. They're six now, and ready for school. But one doesn't read much about them. They're not "news" any more. Which doesn't disturb them a bit. They never knew they were "news," for which they might be thankful.

Some years ago I typed a column about a child prodigy in Atlanta. She was an exceptionally brilliant kid at five.

She must be about 15 now and as bright or brighter than the average. But she hasn't aroused the unbridled enthusiasm of the nation. Just a nice kid, getting along in her classes and probably enamored of the red-headed boy who carries her books home.

But her mother writes me letters and calls me up on the 'phone to talk about Gladys (which isn't the kid's name) and wonders why I don't write more about her and get her picture printed in the paper.

I try to be nice and courteous but somehow I can't get all het up about Gladys. She was a story at five but she isn't now. Until she rescues somebody from drowning or elopes with a prominent actor or lands a job in the movies or slips a butcher knife between the ribs of an adorer.

I'm sorry—and glad. I'd like to see Gladys do something which would make the first page. Though it might land her in jail. That's the reporter instinct in me. On the other hand, I'm glad to note that Gladys is leading a normal life, eating, sleeping, having dates for the pictures, joining a kids' sorority and all that. She isn't making any news (and I suspect she doesn't care a cuss) but she's having a good time as she grows up.

Newspaper folk are not often bothered by precocious youngsters like Gladys. But their proud mothers! Omigod!

Napoleons

Story of several days ago noted the passing of a fine old gentleman whose first name was Napoleon.

It started me thinking of how few Napoleons I had ever known or heard about. It may still be a popular name in France—which had three Napoleons to christen children for. But not in America—and certainly not in England.

I wonder why. Napoleon Bonaparte assuredly was a great soldier. A despot, yes. But like all despots followed blindly by his people. And probably more books have been written about him—in English—than about any other hero. A complete collection of lives of Bonaparte would fill more bookshelves than a good home library could provide.

Maybe there were more young Napoleons a hundred years ago. But they didn't hand down their names to descendants. Perhaps their children and grandchildren were fed up on Mr. Bonaparte. After all, he got licked at Waterloo.

It has often amused me—and I confess I'm easily amused—to guess at the age of an acquaintance from his front name. The Deweys—born at about the time of the Battle of Manila Bay. The Grady's—born when that great editor and orator was telling the world of the New South. The "W. W.'s," a later crop, of the Woodrow Wilson era. I suspect there's quite a big bunch of youngsters in the grammar schools named Franklin D.

Speaking of great men, I almost had a youngster named for me. Our yard man of that period announced a coming event, spoke of his choice of names and collected various this and that while I was carried away with pride. But the eventuality didn't eventuate. It turned out to be a girl.

Writer of a letter to an editor inquires what ever became of the boy whose mother used to lick him for smoking cornsilk cigarettes behind the barn.

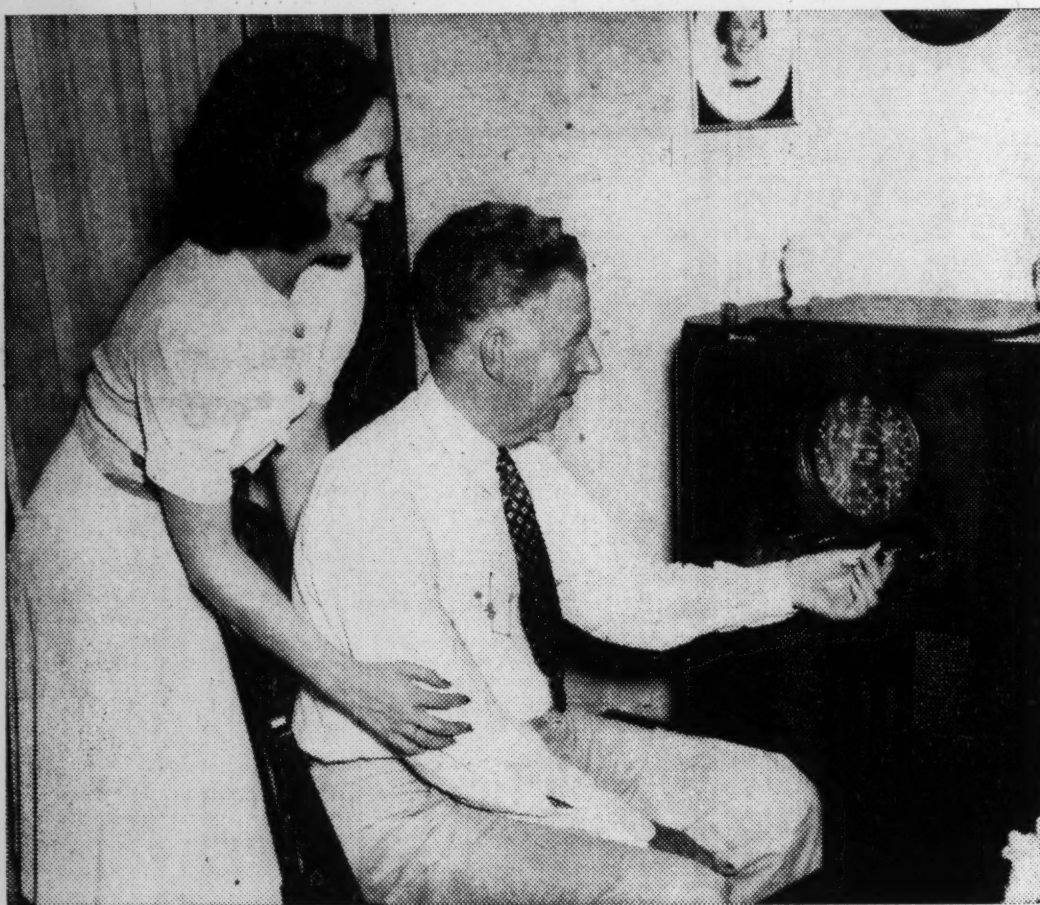

He has grown to be an executive who smokes a pipe and his own private mixture. And his son is pinching cigarettes out of his mother's enameled case and wishing she'd adopt a decent brand.

Nix Shoves Off For the Political Fray

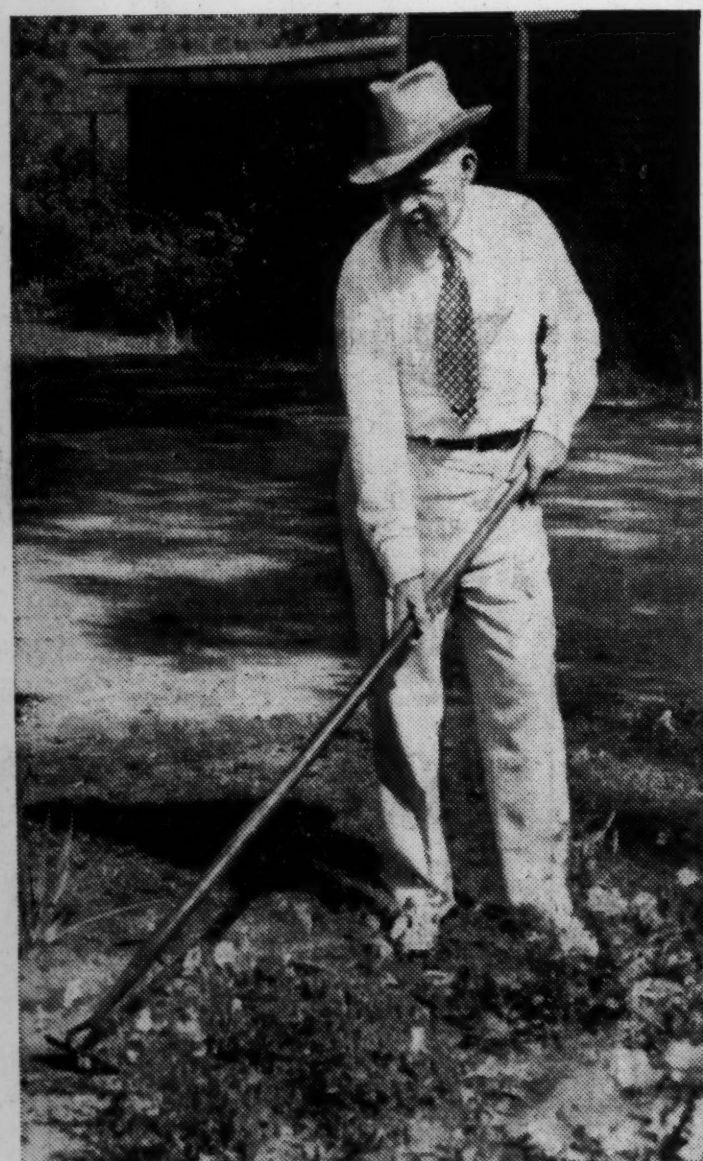

Candidates Roberts and Talmadge Will Appear Tomorrow and Monday Respectively

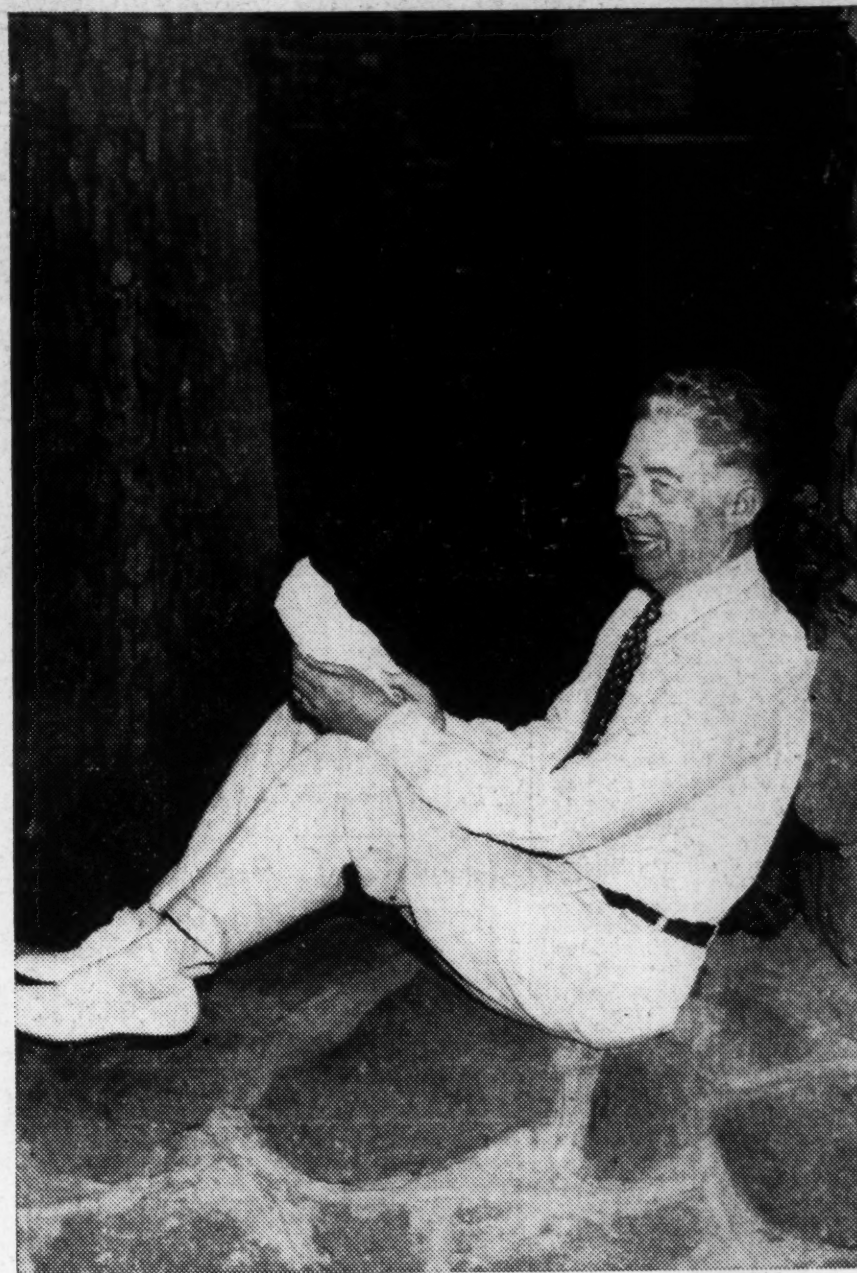

POLITICAL WAR CALLS So Candidate Abit Nix, who's making a spirited bid for the Governorship, says farewell to Mrs. Nix and his attractive daughter Barbara as he takes up the campaign trail. He sometimes must speak as many as two or three times a day in order to cover the state thoroughly.

POLITICAL SPEECH? Candidate Nix twirls the dial as Daughter Barbara smiles over his shoulder. Are they tuning in on a political speech, or just seeking a favorite program?

MAN WITH HOE Candidate Nix doesn't have an abundance of time for flower gardening these days, but when he does find a spare moment he indulges what he considers a pretty good hobby.

GOOD NEWS A smile lights Candidate Abit Nix's face as he reads a letter from a campaign worker telling him how strong he is down in "Green Valley" district. While reading the good news he relaxes for a spell on the front porch of his home in Athens.

FOLKS, MEET THE MRS. The smiling and gracious lady behind the wheel is Mrs. Abit Nix, wife of one of the four who seek Georgia's gubernatorial chair for the coming term. Judging by her expression and that of her husband, they must be enjoying an extremely good joke before she departs.

MUSIC, MAESTRO, PLEASE The ivory-tickling maestro in this case being a feminine one; namely, Candidate Nix's daughter Barbara. She coaxes an ear-caressing melody from the instrument while her dad looks on as if he is about to burst into song. As well he may be, for Candidate Nix is a great lover of music when he can steal a moment away from more pressing duties these days.

William L. White

Recalls Danger
of Antiaircraft
Shell Fragments.

EMPORIA, Kan., Aug. 22.—The chances that I may presently be in England could not yet be called reasonably good. But they may improve, and I hope to get there, and wish very much that I were there now. On the other hand there are some minor reasons which, taken in themselves, would make me content to be there, and they have to do with antiaircraft fire.

You can't know very much about it until you've been in it. When the planes come over in big, steady streams like geese in autumn at 13,000 or 15,000 feet, the antiaircraft starts pumping at them—poom! poom!—and pretty soon the sky around the planes is filled with the cutest little floating powder puffs of smoke you ever saw, each of which suddenly appears full grown from nowhere, and slowly dissolves.

But all these puffs—you crane your neck to look up at them—mean that an antiaircraft shell has exploded. And that's not the end of the story. Because presently hunks of these exploded shells begin drifting gently back to old Mother Earth at the rate of several hundred yards per second.

Sharp as Razor.

When it is all over, if the ground is very hard, you can go around and pick them up—embedded only about six inches in the ground. Some of the pieces you find are about the bulk of an old-fashioned flat iron, and the edges where the steel broke are sharp enough to shave with, although the edge is quite unnecessary, because a piece of that size coming down at the average rate will cut through your skull like butter if you don't have a tin hat on; and even if you do, it will knock you sillier than it is ever convenient to be.

So when there are quite a few puffs in the sky, it is not the bombs you are annoyed with, because any little declivity will protect you from anything but a direct hit, which doesn't happen once in a million, and if it were only that, you could lie happily on your back and watch the dog-fights above.

A Different Story.

But those little powder-puffs put an entirely different aspect on it. Because they mean that presently steel fragments will come fluttering back down, the little ones whistling merrily like a high school boy in love, and the big ones screaming like spoiled brats, and all of them smashing through the slate roofs of the houses round you, or else whining like little lost dogs as they bounce off the paving stones of the road.

If you want to know what you feel like, I can only refer you back to that old dream you used to have, of being invited to speak at a tea given by the Westchester County Ladies' Republican League, and, after you got up on the platform, discovering that you had on only a Charvet cravat and a pair of dancing pumps.

So it is the same way with antiaircraft; you aren't so much scared as you are rightfully embarrassed, and your principal desire is to get out of there quick and under cover fast.

I hesitate to reach up on the shelf and hand you down an old, faded, shopworn European emotion from last winter. But I have been reading about the way the Nazis are warming up the British, and it has warmed me up all over again.

Negro Group To Study Soil Conservation

Third Annual Meeting Will Be Held in Dublin.

DUBLIN, Ga., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Negro farmers of Georgia arranged a study program on soil conservation practices, a live-at-home program and farm management problems for their meeting tomorrow at the Milville community.

Agricultural authorities, educators and a number of businessmen will participate in the studies, with E. A. Miller, assistant to the director, Southern Division of the AAA, as principal speaker.

This will be the third annual farmers' soil conservation meeting for Negroes. Jack Wooten, extension editor, said a tour of the best farms in the community was planned to show the visitors practical application of lessons in all the problems under consideration.

E. C. Thomas, county extension agent for Negroes in this county, announced a barbecue dinner, made up of home-grown products, was on the schedule.

Wooten credited Miles Hackney, of Union Point, with starting this type of meeting when he invited neighbors in to have a look at his own progress with a soil rebuilding program and practical application of the live-at-home idea.

WARMTH FOR PRISONERS.

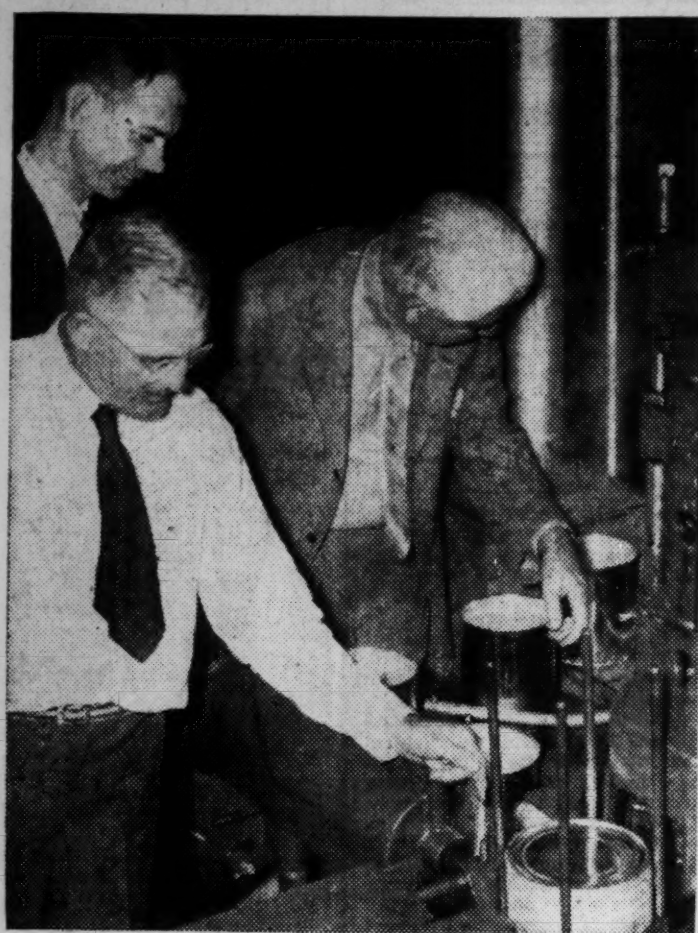

MOULTREE, Ga., Aug. 22.—Prisoners in the city jail and employees working in the municipal building here will not have to shiver from cold this winter. City council this week contracted for the installation of a central heating plant in the building, which has been heated by stoves. The plant will be installed at an approximate cost of $2,200.

Pardon Convicted Kidnap of Girl

J. W. Tweedy, who was convicted of kidnaping a 15-year-old girl and taking her to Akron, Ohio, was granted a conditional pardon yesterday by Governor Rivers, clerks of Fulton superior court were notified.

Tweedy was sentenced to serve seven years by Judge Paul S. Etheridge in 1939. He served approximately one year of his term. The pardon is conditioned on his obeying all laws and stated he was released because the trial jury recommended his offense be treated as a misdemeanor and because he has a wife and children dependent upon him.

"Good Morning," said the tenant who saw your inexpensive rent ad in the want ads of The Constitution.

PRISON CANNING—School officials of Atlanta went to prison yesterday to inspect the work being done under the administration of Superintendent H. H. Gibson. Left to right are D. F. McClatchey, member of the city board of education; Gibson, and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, city school superintendent, at the canning plant of the prison where thousands of cans of food are prepared for the winter.

Education Unit Asked To Aid City Prisoners

Gibson Asks Guidance in Vocational Program for Inmates.

An educational program for inmates of the city prison was proposed to the board of education and school department officials yesterday by H. H. Gibson, superintendent of the city prison and prison farms. Entertaining members of the board and school officials at a luncheon at the prison, Gibson requested the school department to aid in furnishing educational guidance for the inmates. Dr. Willis A. Sutton, city school superintendent, and board members promised co-operation and praised Gibson for the efficient operation of prison farms and shops.

"We are hoping that the school department will aid us in presenting weekly visual education programs for the prisoners and also possibly in establishing evening courses for them here," Gibson said.

"We want to give the prisoners, especially the young ones, some sort of training in a trade so they can make a living when they are released," he added.

Officials said they would attempt to work out a plan whereby facilities of the school department will be made available to the prison.

The visitors inspected all departments of the prison and some of the farm. Gibson said that the prison farm will produce much of its own foodstuffs this year and will furnish corn meal not only to the prison but to Grady hospital and Battle Hill sanitarium as well. A shop and grist mill are being constructed now by remodeling an old dairy barn.

Neutral Egypt Shifts Men to Libyan Border

British Continue To Give Italians 'Headache' by Attacking Bases.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 22.—(P)—Neutral but invasion-conscious Egypt shifted a mobile division today to Italy's Libyan frontier, where British airmen reported striking Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's western desert offensive preparations another heavy blow by bombing and firing Italian supply bases, airdromes and aircraft.

The government had made it clear Egypt will not strike first, despite demands of some influential political leaders for immediate entrance into the war on Britain's side.

"We will not attack," said War Minister Keissy Pasha, "but if we are attacked we will fight alongside our ally, Britain, for the protection of our country."

The British were delighted by the "continual headache" they said their fliers were giving Marshal Graziani by their almost daily attacks on his Libyan bases which force him to keep shifting his troops and supply depots.

Naval oil tanks were set blazing at Tobruk, principal sea base some 70 miles west of the Egyptian frontier, a communiqué said, while a seaplane jetty was smashed at near-by Bomba. Three planes were reported badly damaged at the desert base of El-Mimmi, and landing fields at Tobruk and El Aden were pitted.

Italians Claim Victory. (The Italian high command declared two British cruisers were "hit repeatedly" by bombs in an air attack on a British formation in the eastern Mediterranean. A torpedo boat sank a submarine, and a submarine torpedoed a destroyer in the same region, the Italians reported.)

The British Royal Air Force has heavily bombed Dessie, in Ethiopia, scoring direct hits on an airdrome, it was announced. No RAF planes were lost.

INTERESTING PERSONALITIES—Were in evidence yesterday at Macon as nearly 200 Georgia editors and their families opened the 54th annual convention of the Georgia Press Association. Here (left to right) are P. T. McCutcheon, editor of the Franklin News & Banner; Margaret Mitchell, world-famous author of "Gone With the Wind," and W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph.

QUICK! A GLASS FOR MR. GLASS!—The camera caught this interesting bit of action yesterday at the Georgia Press Association meeting in Macon. While Dudley Glass, columnist for The Constitution, engaged in earnest conversation with Mrs. C. C. Harold, of Macon, someone—feminine, from the looks of the hand—reached for a glass for Mr. Glass.

Nazis Infesting South America, Editors Told

tion of President Roosevelt, asserting "South Americans like Roosevelt."

Abernathy described the activities of Germans in the countries he visited, and said the "Fifth Column" is boring in more rapidly than one realizes.

He said Germans are encouraging nationalistic sentiment against English and American investments, adding he believes that the expropriation of United States and British property was inspired by Nazis.

Delegates to the 54th annual convention of the association were markedly impressed with Abernathy's views.

Sales Taxes Studied.

Recognizing that some kind of a sales tax may be voted in Georgia, the editors held a closed-door session at which several members urged a united front to exempt proceeds from the sales of advertising, a matter of vital interest to Georgia publications. No action, however, has yet been taken on the proposal.

Editorial and publication problems were viewed with attractive entertainment features as the nearly 200 Georgia editors and members of their families began the association's 54th annual convention.

Although hospitable Macon, the "heart of Georgia," swung wide her doors to honor the guests, Roy McGinty, president of the association, stuck to the program of six talks and from an imposing group of experts gave the editors' answers to many of their problems.

Lead Discussions.

H. G. Mitchell, manager of the Atlanta Better Business Bureau, speaking on "Rackets and What They Mean to Newspapers," and John K. Otley Jr., advertising manager of The Atlanta Constitution, speaking on "Local Advertising, Our Most Important Problem," led a long list of technical discussions.

Other editors participating on the afternoon program were Ed A. Burch, of the Dalton Citizen; Victor Armstrong, of the Newnan Herald; Thomas H. Frier, of the Douglas Enterprise; Belmont Dennis, of the Covington News; E. A. Hall, of the Walker County Messenger; W. T. Bacon, of the Madisonian; Jim Coleman, of the Bulloch Herald, Statesboro; Jere N. Moore and Harry Jennings, of the Union Recorder, Milledgeville.

Rivers Represented. A round table discussion of state problems led by seven other editors from all sections of the state and a reception and dinner by W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, wound up the day's activities.

Governor Rivers, who had been expected to visit the association, was out of the state, but was represented by Marvin Griffin, his secretary.

Particular stress was laid during the day on publication problems.

Louie L. Morris, editor of the Hartwell Sun, presided tonight at the dinner tendered delegates. Anderson spoke on "What Newspapers Can Do For Georgia" as a climax of the serious part of the evening's work. Editors then turned their attention to swimming and dancing at Lakeside Park, a well-known Macon resort.

Ottley Speaks.

In attacking the local advertising problem, Ottley warned the "most important thing in successful advertising is to view every problem from the advertiser's viewpoint. This is essential because they are paying the bill in the first place," he said, "and success for the advertiser insures insertions, and better relations between your publication and advertisers. The value of consistency and frequency in advertising reaches its maximum when the advertiser feels you have his interests at heart."

Editors were guests at a lunch in the dining room of Mercer University with the mayor and city council of Macon as hosts. In the absence from the city of Mayor Charles L. Bowden H. W. Pittman, mayor pro tem, represented the city officially.

Councilmen Presented.

All members of city council were presented to the editors, and Jere Moore made the response. Lee S. Trimble, secretary-manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce, was toastmaster.

The editors tonight were planning to hear Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer, welcome the editors officially tomorrow morning, although scores of them and their families planned to spend the night at the beautiful newly completed Columbus Roberts Hall on the campus tonight.

Robert Scott, of McCann Erickson, Inc., will speak this morning on "What Newspapers Need to Get More National Advertising." Lee Kelly, president of the Daily Managers' Association of Georgia, will preside over a discussion of daily publication problems, with McGinty "bossing" similar discussions affecting weeklies; Jim C. Seymour, secretary-manager of the association, will present the "National Advertising Problem."

DO YOU KNOW that on the Want Ad pages of The Constitution a man is advertising who wants to lay your new cement walk or do any kind of concrete work!

'Gone With the Wind' Still Talk Of State Editors at Convention

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 22.—Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" still is the talk of the convention. She and her husband, John R. Marsh, Georgia Power Company executive, are visiting with the editors.

Editor Charles D. Rountree, of the Wrightsville Headlight, says the hurricane which swept the southeastern section of the state recently just about "put my light out." It ripped the roof from his newspaper plant. The damage was $750, Rountree told sympathizers.

H. H. Trotti, vice president and business manager of The Constitution, is one of the most missed absentees. The first question asked is: "Where is Mr. Trotti?" This convention would gladden Mr. Trotti's heart too. There is plenty of good food, and the convention is housed in Mercer University dormitories.

P. T. McCutcheon, editor of the Franklin News and Banner, is attending his 54th annual convention this year. The association is just 54 years old, and McCutcheon has never missed.

The Atlanta Constitution has a quartet of prominent alumni among Georgia's editors, and they are threatening to do a singing act if not gagged by an aroused press. Nelson Shipp, Sunday editor of the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer; Bob Parks, managing editor of the Augusta Chronicle; Albert S. Hardy Jr., associate editor of the Gainesville News, and Jim Coleman, co-editor of the Statesboro Bulloch, all formerly had berths on The Constitution.

D. E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Moore, of Jonesboro, is the "biggest baby" attending the convention. He weighs in at an even 300 pounds. Says he took most of it on showing visitors to Jonesboro where to find "Tara" of "Gone With the Wind" fame.

Milledgeville's well-known Union Recorder, edited by Jere N. Moore, immediate past president of the Georgia Press Association, is 111 years old this week. "I don't feel that old," Moore smiled.

Al Fowler, who played the leading role in the motion picture, "The Green Hand," based on a book written by Dean Paul Chapman, of the State College of Agriculture, is studying aviation at Mercer University, and helped serve editors at lunch. Young Fowler is from Douglas county.

John Drewry, dean of the Henry Grady School of Journalism, University of Georgia, is busy denying he "is out to oust Gable" after a trip to Hollywood. "Why, I didn't even have a screen test," he says to inquiries.

Major J. D. Blair, registrar of Mercer University and a member of the Macon city council, and John Allen, dean of the Mercer School of Journalism, were getting the orchids from editors for their hospitality to the editors.

LIVESTOCK CONFERENCE.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 22.—(P)—Members of district livestock development committees throughout Georgia have been invited to attend a state meeting here next Tuesday. Plans for fat stock shows and other activities next spring will be discussed. R. E. Davis, extension beef cattle and sheep specialist of the Agricultural Extension Service, announced.

Carmen Miranda of the Brazilian curves.

SOUTH AMERICA REFORMS HOLLYWOOD

Paulette Goddard has that Latin appeal.

By Ida Jean Kain.

Now that our American movie makers are looking southward for their market, we can expect to see a change in the screened figure. The Latin like 'em with curves—not grossly overweight, you understand, but definitely with the feminine figure!

And from the New York reception given Carmen Miranda, the Brazilian songbird, last season, it appears we like them that way ourselves. Miss Miranda is a dazzling bundle of vivacity who tips the scales in the 120s for her height of five feet, three inches, and she has a gorgeous figure.

Her style offers quite a contrast to the beauty of some of our American stars—take Loretta Young, Anita Louise, Katherine Hepburn, ad infinitum! Or British Vivian Leigh and Gertrude Lawrence, or French Danielle Darrieux! Or Scandinavian Vera Zorina! Having interviewed these girls, I can tell you that, lovely as they are, they would be even more attractive for 10 more pounds. This holds true for a good percentage of the movie stars. They are just a shade too thin.

Signs of the coming change are already apparent. It seems that every time a group of connoisseurs gets together to nominate the leading American beauty, she turns out to be Paulette Goddard! Just recently, six outstanding American artists added their approbation by naming Miss Goddard as the girl with the ideal face and figure for the films. I have given you the statistics on Miss Goddard before—I picked her myself some time back when asked to make my selection of the movie star with the most beautiful figure.

Miss Goddard is neither too thin nor fat. Here are her specifications—Bust, 34 inches; waist, 24 1/2 inches; hips, 34 inches; thigh, 19 inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, seven and one-half inches. She never lets her weight go below 112 pounds, which is about normal for her height and structure.

Miss Goddard is an excellent representative of the ideal American girl. She's the outdoor type. She loves sports of all kinds. She drinks a quart of milk a day, but eats no sweets or pastries.

With the South American fans agitating for more curvesome figures, it's highly probable that our screen stars will allow their matter of weight, and they will set a healthier example for the rest of the feminine world!

Want to know your ideal weight and measurements? Then send a large stamped return envelope with extra postage for leaflets "The Height-Weight-Structure Chart," and "Measure Your Curves," to Ida Jean Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Why So Much Heart Disease?

By Dr. William Brady.

A frequent query from folk who read other parts of the paper besides this column, and sometimes I think there are a good many who do, is for an explanation of the apparently increasing number of deaths from heart failure. A considerable proportion of these queries are merely rhetorical, however. They state the question as an introduction to an elucidation of the problem for my information. A favorite fancy of these readers reminds me of the fundamental concept my father strove to impress on my mind when I was a sophomore medical student. "My boy," he constantly reiterated, with all the earnestness and conviction of one who has no basic scientific training but indulges in a great deal of thinking and conjecture, "my boy, all disease begins in the stomach." Then, knowing perfectly well that father was wrong, I'd bring up all my reserves and do my damndest, but two hours later when I had run out of ammunition father would feel all the more convinced—as he calmly downed a teaspoonful or two of sand—that if we can but keep the stomach in good condition we will remain free from disease indefinitely.

The idea so many correspondents conceive and present to me is that the pace of modern life, the high tension under which we live, the nervous strain involved in the responsibilities of business and the cares of the home, the unrelenting drive of hurry, hustle and bustle and the ruthless pace set by replaceable is too great for the unreplaceable motor of the human machine, and so the heart fails from wear and tear.

Adapting the thought that a man is as old as his arteries to his purpose the great Dr. Osler, in his famous textbook of "Practice," observed that a man is born with good material or poor material in his arteries and that determines how long he will live. Longevity, Osler taught, was a vascular question. Dr. Osler was a great teacher, but we have acquired considerable new knowledge since his time. From this additional knowledge we confidently reject the Oslerian view, at least in large measure, and accept rather the modern view that longevity is a hygienic question, and we believe the preservation and prolongation of youth is a matter of nutrition primarily and inheritance only secondarily, if at all. This is the theme of No. 2 little lesson in the ways of health, the booklet "CVD (Cardiovascular Degeneration)," which deals with heart and artery disease, high blood pressure, etc., in 41 pages or so, and sets you back a dime and a stamped envelope bearing your address if you send for a copy.

MY DAY: No Alien Need Fear Registry Trouble

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, Wednesday.—I have never known such marvelous weather for this time in August. At certain times in the morning and the breeze was cool, even the flies are gradually disappearing. Before long, I think the woods will be possible for real riding enjoyment.

The purple loose-strife around my pond is at its height in color. At certain times in the day it is reflected in the water and I can see it from the window by my desk. I find myself gazing out in sheer enjoyment of the color, instead of paying attention to my work. I always had great sympathy with children who played hockey from school in the springtime.

Looking out from our porch yesterday, one of our guests remarked: "If you landscaped this view, it could not be lovelier. After all, nature is the best landscape gardener." I agree, for no planning on our part could excel what weeds and trees and meadows do for us.

I am going to use my column today in a very peculiar manner. A woman who wanted some information, and who is evidently a badly frightened human being, wrote me and suggested that I put an ad in the personal column of a certain newspaper, giving an answer to a question. Unfortunately, this is not possible, for the answer is slightly longer than one could put in a personal item. She wrote anonymously and I have no way of reaching her, unless she should happen to read this column. In which case, if she will write me, I can give her the answer to her question, which is entirely reassuring.

While we are talking about people who are panicky about things they do not understand, I should like to say a word to those who have been asked to register under the alien registration act. Several people who have written me who have been here for a long time, have led good lives and have become respected citizens in their communities. But, when they originally entered this country, they perhaps slipped up on some necessary observances for legal entry.

Instead of being terrified now, it is better to go to the officials and tell the whole story. They are sure to have fair and understanding treatment. Their standing in the community will be in their favor, and they will certainly receive sympathetic assistance in straightening out their difficulties, whatever they may be.

Garbo's Clothes Atrocious At Dietrich Stage Party

By Sheila Graham.

For North American Newspaper Alliance. HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 22.—Greta Garbo is Marlene Dietrich's guest at the stage showing of "Tonight at 8:30" at the El Capitan theater. And after the performance Marlene, Noel Coward and Cary Grant congregate in Joan Fontaine's dressing room (the ban on back-stage visitors for the star-studded cast has been lifted). Garbo, of course, does not come back stage. She has disappeared through a side exit. But everyone in the cast is talking about her. This sort of thing goes on. Nigel Bruce comes in and says excitedly, "I saw Garbo." Dame May Whitty saunters by. "Isn't it wonderful?" she gushes. "I saw Garbo in front." Roland Young comes in. "Is Garbo around?" he inquires. Brian Aherne pops his head inside the door. "Did someone say Garbo?"

The only one who is not excited about Miss Garbo is Marlene. "Ah!" sighs Miss Dietrich, "If she would only let me dress her! But she won't." It seems that Garbo wore some atrocious clothes for the big event—an enormous black hat (I'm glad I wasn't sitting in back of her), black dress, black stockings and shoes, and a black coat. "If she wanted to hide her face," says Claire Trevor, "she should have worn a visor." There was more of it. I've just given you this sample to demonstrate how the stars can get excited about a new star—when the star is Garbo.

Joan and Brian Aherne, by the way, have promised Noel Coward to take care of two children, aged 12 and 15, from the British actors' orphanage. It was to place 37 of these children in California that Coward came here. "He's trying to get Errol Flynn to take a couple. Can you imagine the excitement of the youngsters at finding themselves in the home of a movie star? . . . Paulette Goddard was telling someone on the set that one of the biggest laughs in Chaplin's "The Great Dictator" is when Jack Oakie, as the Mussolini caricature, says to the Hitler ditto, "I'm not happy here. I want to go home." . . . And Chaplin's sons

How a Girl Can Test a Boy

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I know a lot of girls in the same fix I'm in and we need some straight-from-the-shoulder advice. I'll state my own case frankly and you discuss it frankly, please. I'm 20, he's 20. I love him and to all appearances he loves me but doesn't say so. He's respectful, and in three years has never done anything I had to call him on. We never quarrel. He has spells of coming and spells of staying away and he isn't the same all the time. Sometimes he's talkative and entertaining, then again he's quiet and detached. Would be content to date me for three straight years if he didn't care for me? How can I test his love? Should I date other boys or keep on as I've been going, hoping he will ring me and say he wants the date? I confess I am lonely and not happy.

FRANK.

ANSWER: No news is definitely not good news in boy and girl business. The boy who employs pantomime instead of the spoken word has a reason. He's conveying the thoughts he wants you to harbor but he's withholding the word that holds him. Nothing is so eloquent as love. Love makes the tongue-tied male fluent. It makes the faint-hearted male as bold as a lion. It makes the vacillating male come to quick decision.

For some inexplicable reason that baffles the wisest, a girl will not accept any of this so long as she has a steady date who is behaving differently! Let him continue to come and she's convinced. Let him keep silent and she concocts a reason for it. She'd rather kid herself and keep the trust than face the facts and forego the pleasure. Maybe this tenacity pays off eventually but it's doubtful.

Competition, so important to

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Sue: "Mother said for me to ask you what your baby's name is so that we can play on the other side of the house while he is asleep."

Daughter: "Mrs. Jones told us not to make so much noise because her baby is asleep."

Mother: "You tell her this is our driveway just as much as it is hers."

A friendly relationship between neighbors depends largely upon the type of teaching children receive from their parents.

big business, is important to girl and boy business. If the boy friend must phone well ahead to get the date, the date takes on value. If he's uncertain where he stands with the girl friend his curiosity is piqued.

There's the girl's art with the nibbling beau: to give him sop, yet keep him hungry; to give him encouragement, yet withhold certainty; to show enough affectionate interest in him to flatter him but not enough to founder him. This can hardly be done without benefit of other boy friends; because a girl of 20 must have somebody to love and the steady knows it. If he's the only one around, he surmises he's the white-haired lad, and has the girl sewed up.

You've got to furnish impetus to the slow heartbeats of the boy friends. Competition is the best method of providing impetus.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

If you ask your husband for ten bucks when he's in a good humor, that's psychology. . . . If you ask him for ten bucks when he's good ten bucks, that's common sense.

Today's Charm Tip! Should a friend mispronounce a word or make other verbal mistake, refrain from the temptation to show up her ignorance by correcting her.

The inability to make a quick decision is rarely ever due to the fact that you have so much mind to make up.

Christening Services Interest Friends, Relatives of Babies

• • • TWO YOUNG MEMBERS of well-known southern families will steal the limelight from their elders next Sunday, when interest of hosts of Georgians and Tennesseans will be focused on the youngsters, both of whom are six months old, and will be christened at impressive ceremonies.

First on the program will be the service for little Richard Gray Brumby Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gray Brumby, of Marietta, which takes place on Sunday at the Presbyterian church atop Lookout Mountain. For sentimental reasons the young couple have chosen Dr. E. S. Campbell to officiate, for it was this beloved pastor who performed the ceremony when the Brumbys were married. Mrs. Brumby, you know, is the former Virginia Tift, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Tift Jr., of Tifton, and made her home for some time with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Pound, on Lookout Mountain. It was at the latter place that her marriage to Mr. Brumby took place.

Among relatives to attend the service will be Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tift III, newlyweds from New Orleans; Mrs. T. M. Brumby, Tom Brumby III and Cordelia Brumby, of Marietta, all of whom will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pound.

The other baby on whom interest is centered is little Stephen Braswell, son of Lieutenant and Mrs. Roder Braswell, who will reach the impressive age of six months tomorrow. Little Stephen is blond like his mother, the former Elizabeth Willingham, daughter of Mrs. Harold Willingham, of Marietta. The popular young army couple recently returned to Marietta for a visit, after having been stationed at Manila in the Philippines, where their young son was born.

Christening ceremonies are set for Sunday, September 1, at St. Philip's cathedral here, with Dean de Ovies officiating. The selection of the Episcopal cathedral for the ceremony bears sentimental interest, for the Willingham-Braswell wedding several years ago.

Colonel Arthur Tasker, U. S. A., retired, of Baltimore, and Harold Willingham, uncle of the baby, will stand as godfathers and Mrs. Tasker will be godmother.

After a visit in Marietta the Braswells will go to Washington, where Captain Braswell will be detailed at Walter Reed hospital. Mrs. Braswell is the newest recruit to the Marietta Town Committee of the Colonial Dames. Mrs. Fred Morris entertained recently for her, the affair being in the nature of a quilting bee, the work being done for the Red Cross relief work.

The old saying that the world is small can be further evidenced in the fact that when the Braswells lived in Manila in an attractive two-story stucco house, the other residents were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Alsobrooks. The Alsobrooks are visiting in Chattanooga now, and motored to Marietta recently to visit their former Manila neighbors.

As for life in the Philippines, entertainment customs are very similar to the American way, according to Mrs. Braswell. They play golf, tennis, bridge, ride horseback and play mahjong. The prettiest buildings are the legislative and the customs house, and the young matron spoke particularly of the beauty of the butterfly orchids in Manila.

• • • THE "WEST WINDS DOB BLOW," and news comes drifting southward concerning the marvelous times that Jake and Margaret Palmer Moses are enjoying just now. Jake and Margaret were married at a brilliant ceremony taking place in Atlanta last June, and, much to the distress of their friends, they departed soon thereafter to reside in Great Bend, Kan.

At present, Margaret and Jake are going to parties galore while visiting their aunts, the Misses Alice and Clementine Moses, who have an attractive summer home at Colorado Springs, Col.

The newlyweds will spend several weeks in Colorado and will return to Great Bend just in time to make plans as to whether Jake will continue his studies at the University of Michigan, or enter the University of Kansas. Margaret may enroll as a co-ed at this university located in Manhattan, Kan.

Energetic and ambitious, Margaret is planning to keep house in an apartment if they both decide to enter this particular university. It goes without saying that Margaret will find ample time to devote to her studies and to her culinary responsibilities.

Weds C. W. Moon

The Kirkwood Presbyterian church formed the setting Monday evening at 8 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Ann Rebecca Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Lloyd Smith, and Clyde Weldon Moon, son of Fletcher Moon and the late Mrs. Moon, of Comer. Rev. E. P. Carson performed the ceremony and Joseph Ragan, organist, and James H. Witherington, soloist, presented a program of music.

The altar of the church was banked with palms interspersed with candelabra holding burning white tapers. Completing the decorations were baskets filled with lilies and white gladioli.

Marking the pews reserved for members of the families and out-of-town guests were clusters of white gladioli tied with satin ribbons.

Groomsmen were Charles A. Miller and Charles Pursley. Miss Emma Smith, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. She was gowned in blue taffeta designed with a full skirt and featuring a fitted bodice with puffed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium.

Miss Floride Smith, sister of the bride, and Miss Helen Kenney, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of rose-colored taffeta designed like that worn by the maid-of-honor, and they carried bouquets of pastel summer flowers.

The attendants wore old-fashioned lockets, gifts of the bride. The lovely bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Clifford T. Moon, who served as best man. The bride wore a lustrous white satin designed along Princess lines and featuring a court train and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her only ornament was an old gold antique necklace and she carried a bouquet of gladioli.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home on Matthews avenue.

Mrs. Smith received her guests wearing a gown of smoke blue crepe with which she wore white accessories and a shoulder bouquet of Talisman roses and swainsona.

The hosts were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Paul B. Matthei, of Chicago, and Mrs. John D. Whorton.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Florida and upon their return they will reside in Atlanta where the groom is affiliated in business. Mrs. Moon chose for traveling a gown of soldier blue crepe with which she wore matching accessories and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

Underwriters Hold Outing at N. Fulton Park

250 Play Golf and Tennis, Swim and Eat Barbecue.

Approximately 250 members and friends of the Atlanta Life Underwriters' Association golfed, played tennis, swam and ate barbecue at North Fulton Park yesterday as the organization staged its annual outing.

The golf tournament attracted more than 80 players and three of them tied for top honors while first place in the blind bogey went to Meyer Balser. Other blind bogey winners were Bealy Smith, Joe Harrell, Elliott Haas, Dozier P. Willard and W. W. (Muggsy) Smith.

Bob Ingram, Frank Ridley and "Muggsy" Smith—with net 73½—finished in a tie for low scoring honors. Prizes were awarded all bogey and low scorers.

Officers of the association, who had charge of the event, included S. R. Bridges, president; Stanton Hale and Walter Rountree, vice presidents and Tom Pendleton, treasurer.

Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta famous golfer, was a guest participant in the meet and finished with a gross 83—or net 73. It was her first playing of the course.

Japan Recalls Envoy to U. S. In Big Shakeup

Americas, British Outposts Affected in New Diplomatic Offensive.

TOKYO, Aug. 22.—(P)—Japan recalled her ambassador to the United States and a small army of diplomats and consular officials from the western world and elsewhere tonight in what the Domei (Japanese) News Agency described as the prelude to "a diplomatic offensive."

No posts in Axis countries, Great Britain or Russia were disturbed, but the orders affected virtually all the Americas, key non-belligerent points in Europe and British empire outposts. When replacements would be made was not made clear.

Wholesale Shakeup. The wholesale shakeup was ordered by Yosuke Matsuoka, Oregon-educated, nationalistic foreign minister in the totalitarian government of Prince Fumimaro Konoye.

Matsuoka already has said that he is going to brook no "todayism" in the diplomacy of the new order in Japan. Observers noted that the outstanding figures recalled were old-line diplomats with a broad, international outlook, and considered it likely they would be replaced by men of the aggressive, nationalistic school.

Heading the list of those recalled was Kensuke Horinouchi, soft-spoken ambassador to Washington for two years. His successor has not been named, but political observers believed the choice might be Yoshisuke Aikawa, a spectacular industrialist sometimes called "The Henry Ford of Japan."

Six-Foot Rattlesnake Found on Lumber Truck

A THENS, Ga., Aug. 22.—A Greene county sawmill operator, W. H. Barnett, felt nothing unusual as he hauled a truckload of lumber to an Athens lumber mill Wednesday.

Unloading the truck, he discovered a six-foot diamond-back rattlesnake coiled atop the lumber. Barnett killed the reptile which boasted 11 rattles and one button.

Colescott Ousts Klan Giant in Bund Incident

Bundsmen Permitted to Address N. J. Rally, Is Charge.

By The Associated Press. James Colescott, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, said last night that he had ordered the removal of Arthur Bell, of Bloomfield, N. J., grand giant of the New Jersey Klan, as the result of a Klan meeting in a German-American Bund camp Sunday.

Colescott declared Bell had failed "to adhere to the principles and ideals of the Klan" in allowing an officer of the German-American Bund to appear on the platform at a Klan meeting at the Bund camp Nordland in Andover and "address an assembly of Klan."

The Klan chieftain also said that Bell violated his word in allowing the Bund to be injected into the meeting when the camp had been leased by the Klan with the understanding that no other organization would be connected with it.

"It seems that the meeting turned into a joint one with the Klan and the Bund," Colescott asserted, adding "there can be no sympathy on the part of the Bund and the Klan."

Willkie Maps 18-State Tour Of 3,800 Miles

Seven Major Addresses Listed for Middle and Far West.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie decided tonight to make a 3,800-mile tour through 18 states of the middle and far west.

After a conference with Chairman Joseph W. Martin of the Republican national committee, the Presidential nominee announced that he would leave his temporary headquarters in Rushville, Ind., September 14 and would go by special train to Coffeyville, Kan., where he will open his campaign formally two days later.

Willkie said he probably would make seven major addresses and between 20 and 25 informal talks. Besides Coffeyville, the main speeches are expected to be at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash., and an undesignated town in Iowa.

The nominee will make his final address of that trip at Detroit September 30 before the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs.

A schedule of dates for the platform at a Klan meeting at the Bund camp Nordland in Andover and "address an assembly of Klan."

Willkie said his special train would carry him through the following states: Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Dispute Grows Over Profits Tax Proposal

'Anything Can Happen,' House Committee Members Report.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(P) Members of the House Ways and Means Committee reported tonight that dissension within the committee over the proposed excess profits tax had grown to the point where "anything can happen."

These points were said to be under attack:

(1) The proposed four-year base period, 1936 to 1939, inclusive. Earnings during this period govern to a large extent the untaxed credits which would be allowed, under either of two alternative systems for figuring the tax. There were contentions that the base period years were not representative years and that corporations with deficits during the period would suffer hardships.

(2) The so-called "average earnings" method of computing tax credits, under which a corporation could claim a tax exemption on an amount equal to its average earnings during the base period. Some members were arguing this gives too great an advantage to concerns which have been prosperous during the last few years.

(3) The formula employed in the so-called "invested capital" method of computing tax credits. This formula permits corporations which have earned 10 per cent or more on their capital investment during the base period to go untaxed on an amount equal to 10 per cent of the capital investment.

REFRIGERATION GAINS. LAGRANGE, Ga., Aug. 22.—Troup county's interest in politics is increasing, figures released by the board of registrars indicate. The May registration saw 5,736 persons eligible for voting, showing an increase of more than 2,000 over the June, 1939, registration list, and an additional 113 persons are qualified for the coming Democratic primary, bringing the total to date to 5,849.

Dixie Speeches Will Be Made By Roosevelt

President To Dedicate Chickamauga Dam on Labor Day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(P)—President Roosevelt and his vice presidential running mate, Henry A. Wallace, announced today their first speaking dates since their nominations last month to head the 1940 Democratic ticket.

Except for Wallace's acceptance address at Des Moines, Iowa, a week from today, about which he conferred with the President during the day, the speeches—three of them on Labor Day, September 2—were described officially as "non-political."

The White House announced that the chief executive would deliver two "brief" dedication speeches—one at Chickamauga Dam, Chattanooga, Tenn., Labor Day morning, and the other that afternoon at Newfound Gap, on the Tennessee-North Carolina border, at ceremonies formally opening the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

On this same trip, the President will inspect the naval armor and gun plants at South Charleston,

W. Va., the morning of September 3. He will return to Washington that night.

Wallace said he would deliver a "non-political" speech at the Afro-American Exposition at Chicago Labor Day and would then start active campaigning for the Democratic ticket.

The President will be away from Washington about eight days. He will leave next Tuesday for a stay of nearly five days at Hyde Park, N. Y., then go direct by train to Chattanooga.

White Way Incomplete, Celebration Postponed

A celebration scheduled for tonight at the intersection of Ponce de Leon and Highland avenues to observe completion of a new link in the city's whiteway system has been postponed, Earl Hatcock, president of the Little Five Points Lions Club, sponsor of the event, said yesterday.

Hatcock said a delay in completion of the system was responsible for the postponement. The new lights will extend down Ponce de Leon avenue from Peachtree street to Moreland avenue.

ROCK SHIPPED.

LITHONIA, Ga., Aug. 22.—Railroad shipping reached a new high here this week when 76 cars filled with crushed granite from a local quarry were moved to Atlanta. Totalling more than 3,500 tons, the rock will be used in Atlanta housing projects and nearby paving jobs.

Antoine Sends Hairdresser at Wally's Order

Duchess in a Dither Because of Important Reception Today.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(UP) The House of Antoine de Paris, doer-uppers of milady's hair, announced today that one of its fanciest coiffe-controvers was flying to Nassau tonight to do a hurry-up job on the Duchess of Windsor's tresses.

Antoine's got the order by cable from the duchess and selected Wayne Forrest for the dash south. The Duchess is to attend an important reception tomorrow, it was explained, and has to have her hair gone over for the affair.

The hairdresser arranged for a plane departure and assigned the rest of his staff to helping Forrest pack such equipment as a permanent wave dryer and the like.

MRS HITCH SPEAKS. QUITMAN, Ga., Aug. 22.—Mrs. Robert M. Hitch, of Savannah, was guest speaker at the Brooks County Kiwanis Club meeting here tonight.
